

Therapy Physicists for Illinois or Wisconsin

Advocate Aurora Healthcare

Advocate Aurora Healthcare is seeking therapeutic Medical Physicists to join our team.

Advocate Aurora fosters a team atmosphere among the 19 radiation oncology departments in Illinois and Wisconsin, with collaboration and support encouraged between physics colleagues, as well as the rest of our integrated physicians and medical team. These positions will have primary responsibilities to a home facility, where you will be able to be an integral part of that department. There will be limited travel to assist other sites as needed, but most aspects can be covered remotely, ensuring your work life balance.

Advocate Aurora offers an excellent benefits package including paid time off; 401(k) with company match; health, dental and vision insurance; tuition assistance programs for additional degrees and certifications; as well as many other benefits and perks.

Job Description:

Participate in all clinical physics duties including calibrations and quality assurance of Varian linear accelerators, 4-D capable CT simulators, HDR and LDR systems where available.

Develop and oversee department quality program and help to ensure all ASTRO APEX standards are maintained. Train and advise technical staff on new equipment and procedures.

Work with physicians, dosimetrists, and therapists to provide physics insights and support on treatment planning and delivery.

Primary Qualifications:

ABR board certification in Therapeutic Medical Physics preferred but will consider Board Eligible candidates with strong HDR experience. HDR AMP Eligibility strongly preferred. All levels of experience will be considered for candidates satisfying the certification requirements.

Good communication, interpersonal, and organizational skills are essential. Experience with Varian accelerators, Eclipse treatment planning, and ARIA information system are highly desired. Illinois candidates will also utilize Mosaic.

Advocate Aurora offers many opportunities, so we're sure to have a great fit for you. Whether it's enjoying the scenic outdoor activities, taking in live theater or music, cheering on one of our top-rated professional sports teams, enjoying a fine dining experience or connecting with nature, our Midwest locations will meet all of your needs. Be part of one of the top not-for-profit healthcare systems in the country, providing you limitless technical opportunities while valuing your well-being.